CURTIS NAMED EMPLOYEE OF THE YEAR

LEXINGTON KY, JANUARY 2, 2008: Matthew Curtis, an engineer in the Civil Engineering Department of Nesbitt Engineering, Inc. has been named the 2007 Employee of the Year. Curtis was honored at a reception prior to the company's holiday dinner on December 8, and was presented his award by NESBITT's President, Paul D. Nesbitt.

Mr. Nesbitt stated that Matt was the youngest employee to ever receive the award, and added, "...Matt exhibits strong leadership characteristics and a consistent willingness to support and encourage his colleagues."

"I can honestly say that I was shocked and honored to receive this award," Curtis said. "It's a tribute to all of the support and assistance from the NESBITT team. It's a pleasure to be part of an organization that is as supportive as NESBITT has been to my family and me."

With offices in Lexington, Hazard and Prestonsburg, NESBITT provides engineering consulting services throughout Kentucky in a broad range of disciplines including solid waste management, civil engineering, mining engineering, oil and gas consulting, surveying and environmental sciences.
